

G. H. A. Arranges Office Schedule For 3 Doctors

Election of a new director to replace Curtis Barker and selection of another auditor are scheduled on the agenda of the Greenbelt Health Association's quarterly meeting next Wednesday. Chairman Sherrod East will open the meeting in the Auditorium of the Elementary School at 8:15 p. m.

Absentee Voting Up

As unfinished business there will be presented an amendment to the Association's by-laws which would permit absentee voting. Quarterly reports will be presented by Delbert Mesner, new business manager, the president, and various committees.

After operating for some months with a limited staff the Association now has two full-time and a part-time doctor on duty. For the benefit of new residents of Greenbelt the Association has made available to the Cooperator the new schedules for medical service.

Appointments Only

All office calls are by appointment only, at the Medical Center, intersection of Gardenway and Ridge Road.

Monday, Wednesday, Friday: Morning hours are from 10 to 12 o'clock, with Dr. Eisner and Dr. Berenberg on duty; afternoon hours are from 4 to 6 o'clock, with

Indoor Recreation Program Under Way

The Greenbelt Recreation Department indoor schedule got under way this week. The fairer sex were the first to make use of the gym this fall. They will have gym every Tuesday evening from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. All types of recreational games including badminton, volley ball, shuffle board, table tennis, weight, normalizing, basketball, and other physical activities will be enjoyed. All women are asked to wear gym shoes to this class.

The high school boys and girls will have their recreation night on Wednesday at the same time. There will be dancing, volley ball, ping pong, shuffle board, badminton, and quiet games including chess, cards, checkers, dominoes. Any boy or girl wishing to participate in any activity on the floor, except dancing must wear gym shoes.

The men of the town will help perfect their physical fitness on Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 10:30. They may take calisthenics, basketball, volley ball, table tennis, badminton, shuffleboard, and individual testing stunts. They are also requested to wear gym shoes.

These activities are free to all residents of Greenbelt and offer a good chance to become physically fit. Tournaments are organized from time to time in many of these activities.

Eshbaugh and Mott Fill Director Jobs

George Eshbaugh and Waldo H. Mott were appointed directors of the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union Sunday at a regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of that organization.

Mr. Eshbaugh and Mr. Mott fill positions recently vacated by George Hodsdon and Joseph L. Rogers.

Albert J. Folkman was appointed assistant treasurer filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Sophie Rogers.

NBC and CBS Refuse Co-op Advertising

The National Broadcasting Company, pressed for a reason for its refusal to sell time to the co-operatives, has concluded that the use of the radio stations it owns and controls would attract new members to consumer co-operatives. On those grounds NBC has refused to sell time to the Co-operative League for its long anticipated program, "Let's Get Together, Neighbor" which was scheduled to go on the air on thirty stations from coast to coast starting Sunday, October 11.

At least that is the reason James V. McConnell, manager of National Spot and Local Sales for NBC, gave to Atherton and Currier, New York advertising agency handling the co-operative account. This reason was given following a long session between representatives of NBC, Atherton and Currier and the Co-operative League at which time the question was raised as to whether or not the co-op program would be "controversial."

The sales department of the Columbia Broadcasting System, following the NBC move, refused to sell the co-operatives available time which had been cleared on stations WJSV, Washington, D. C. and WCCO, Minneapolis, both of which it owns and controls. Columbia raised the question orally of the "controversial" nature of Consumer Cooperation but when pressed for an answer refused to put in writing the reasons for its refusal to sell time to the co-operatives.

The board of directors of the Co-operative League of the USA, feeling that the refusal of the large radio companies to sell time to the co-ops would set a dangerous precedent, voted to postpone the radio series pending an investigation by the Federal Communications Commission or other federal agencies concerned with the radio industry.

Next Legion Dance Set for November 7

The American Legion's Armistice Day Dance will be held this year on November 7, a Saturday night.

Busse Ellis and his 12-piece orchestra will play for the dance. There will be a specialty number in addition.

Arrangements are in the hands of Robert Gray, who announces that the dance will be in the Auditorium and will last from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The Armistice Day dance is an annual affair for the local post of the Legion. Tickets are on sale at 55 cents per person by Legion members.

Nutrition Course Open As Canteen Prerequisite

Final arrangements have been made to offer a course in Cooking and Nutrition under the supervision of the Adult Education Department and for the specific benefit of women who are or wish to be connected with the canteen group under the local defense organization.

The class met Thursday evening in room 123 of the Elementary School at 8 p. m. and will continue to meet every Thursday evening for two hours until the prescribed Red Cross course is completed. The nutrition course is given as a prerequisite for the canteen class.

Mrs. Josephine McGuire, 21-C Parkway Rd., is teaching the class.

British Co-op Leader Coming Monday for Quarterly Meeting of Greenbelt Consumer Services

Neal S. Beaton, president of the Scottish Cooperative Wholesale Society, and one of the foremost figures in the British cooperative and trade union movements, will address Greenbelters at the next quarterly meeting of Greenbelt Consumers Services, Inc., Monday, October 26.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Elementary School.

Addressed Co-op Congress

Mr. Beaton flew to this country to address the National Cooperative Congress at Minneapolis, Minnesota September 29 as a representative of the British co-operatives, which number as members a majority of the millions of people living in the British Isles.

Born in the home of a Scottish shepherd, five miles from the nearest school, Mr. Beaton has spent 40 years in the service of cooperatives and trade unions, achieving the highest positions these groups could bestow upon him. He started his business career as a grocer's apprentice, and after four years in private enterprise obtained a position with an Edinburgh cooperative society. He has been active in the movement ever since, establishing new societies and building up branches throughout Britain, Scotland and Northern Ireland. His organizations have established barter arrangements with Canadian co-operatives.

Positions Listed

Mr. Beaton, who became president of the Scottish Cooperative Wholesale in 1932, is also at present chairman of the British Cooperative Congress, and is a past chairman of the British and Scottish Trades Union Congresses, the Shop Assistance Union and the British Section of the International Cooperative Trading Agency. It is interesting to know that the businesses run by British cooperatives are among the largest enterprises in the United Kingdom, the Scottish Cooperative alone doing a volume of $265,000,000 yearly.

In addition to the above activities, Mr. Beaton has more than once served his government on bodies studying the extension of public ownership of public utilities.

In addition to Mr. Beaton's talk, the order of business of the meeting will include hearing of reports of officers and committees, the selection of an election committee of three members, and new business. Nominations for the election committee will be made from the floor.

A drawing for a door prize will be held just following the opening of the meeting.

Hallowe'en Dance Attracts Students Next Friday Night

The Greenbelt Recreation Department is sponsoring a Hallowe'en Barn Dance for high school students and 6th and 7th grade students, who are residents of Greenbelt. This gay shindig will be held in the Auditorium of the Elementary School on Friday, October 30. The ghosts are guaranteed to start their frolics at 9:15.

The party will be a masquerade. Prizes will be given for the best, most original and funniest costumes for boys and girls. John Walker's Hill Billy band will play. There will also be jitterbug music for those who are "hep". Games guaranteed to break down dignity will be played. Refreshments will be served.

The following boys and girls are serving on the committee for the dance: Jerry Andrus, Ray Ward, Betty Dixon, Helen Ward, Patricia Loftus. The admission to the dance will be 25 cents. Tickets may be secured from any of those serving on the committee or from the Recreation Department. Alumni of the high school of the last two years are invited.

NEIL S. BEATON

Hallowe'en Dance Saturday, Oct. 31

Witches may fly thru' the nite, cats may meow (in Greenbelt—what a laugh), goblins may gobble and elves may parade around town playing mischievous pranks but on Hallowe'en night the citizens of Greenbelt are going to have a good time.

The Citizens Association has announced that all plans have been made to make this year's affair a most enjoyable and memorable one for all those who will attend.

Although the dance is being advertised and announced as a Hallowe'en Dance and Masquerade Party let it be understood that wearing costume is not necessary. Everyone is invited and everyone is expected to attend whether dressed normal, formal or abnormal.

In order to inspire residents to come in costume, the Citizens Association announces that a prize and maybe "prizes" will be awarded to the best-dressed male, or female. Judges will be appointed but will remain unannounced throughout the dance until the selection is made.

Music will be provided by a new band for Greenbelt listeners—Johnny Sinclair and his Nine-Piece Band. Dancing will be from 10 to 1 in the morning, with Virginia reels, waltz and jitterbug contests all thrown in.

Refreshments will be on sale outside the Auditorium. The admission price is 50 cents a ticket. Tickets are on sale this week—get your own today, and invite your friends. Bring all your neighbors. We're going to have fun this Hallowe'en—you betcha'.

The following persons have tickets for sale: Dr. James McCarl, office at 30-A Ridge Rd.; Edward C. Kaighn, 13-V Ridge Rd.; Oscar Zoellner, 7-E Crescent Rd.; Jennings B. Craig, 35-C Ridge Rd.; Donald Nicodemus, 6-B Ridge Rd.; Stanley Ostler, 17-E Crescent Rd.; Joseph Compton, 3-G Crescent Rd.; John Marshall, 20-F Crescent Rd.; James Smith, 4-H Southway; Phil Wexler, 42 Crescent Rd.

McCamy Resigns Post

Winfield McCamy, town clerk and secretary to Town Manager Roy S. Braden, has resigned her position in the Greenbelt administrative offices to accept an offer under the Lease Reviewing Division of Federal Public Housing Authority in Washington. Mrs. McCamy has worked in Greenbelt exactly four years. She and her family will continue to reside here.

Defense Corps Cooperation For County Aid Promised

BY PHIL WEXLER

Arthur Rysticken, commander of Greenbelt's Civilian Defense Corps, announced early this week that a complete understanding has been reached between Robert Sherwood, chairman of the Maryland Defense Council, and the Defense Corps here in town.

"Although we have developed here our own complete civilian defense organization, we are also a vital part of the defense project of Prince Georges County," stated Mr. Rysticken. "We are more than happy to be in position to offer any available aid we possibly can to the County. We must stand united in our defense efforts as well as concentrate our strength upon winning this war at the front."

Communication System Clarified

As a result of his meeting with Mr. Sherwood, Mr. Rysticken stated that the Fire House Control Center will, hereafter receive all calls and messages from the County Control Center. George Panagoulis, corps controller, will then relay the messages to the chiefs of staff concerned. When calls come through the Control Center a cascade telephone system is placed into use by the Corps for contacting the necessary defense personnel and calling them to their stations.

Up to the present writing whenever a County defense official had a request to make of a Greenbelt Chief of Staff, he called him at home. If the request was granted, the Corps as a whole never knew just what equipment nor how many men were actually available at any one time. With all calls and requests coming through the Control Center the commander will know at all times where every piece of equipment is located.

Staff Meeting Next Week

There will be a staff meeting of all Defense Corps chiefs sometime during the middle of next week. All chiefs will be notified as to time and place and attendance at this meeting will be compulsory. Organizational duties and their full responsibilities will be discussed and explained in detail. The immediate training of defense workers and the coordination of defense activities will be important topics on the agenda.

Scrap Pile Still Growing

Greenbelt now possesses a scrap heap approximating forty tons behind the town garage. The Prince

Georges County scrap collectors are expected out this week to make their first collection. Greenbelters are urged to continue taking their scrap to the place provided for it at the local Service Station.

Red Cross Activities Need Help

All persons interested in joining the sewing and knitting group are requested to contact Mrs. A. Lewis, Greenbelt 4221 between 5 and 7 p. m. Many people are anxious to get in touch with the local bandage rolling group. Interested parties are asked to call Mrs. Hamlett at Greenbelt 5556 between 9 and 12 o'clock in the evening.

Any Blood?

Mrs. Virginia Harris reports that there has been apparent lapse of interest on the part of the Greenbelt women in the Blood Bank contributions. The Blood Bank has been functioning for some time and the women of Greenbelt have responded well to the Nation's call for the much-needed blood plasma.

Mrs. Harris has also been working on the possibility of getting the Blood Bank Caravan to visit Greenbelt in the very near future, but because of the lack of interest in the Bank of late she is doubtful about requesting the Caravan to make the trip to Greenbelt. In order to insure the Caravan's arrival to take Blood Bank contributions here in town, approximately one hundred and twenty-five people are needed as potential and voluntary donors to the Bank.

Residents who are interested in going with the Greenbelt Blood Bank Group into Washington are requested to call Mrs. Harris at Greenbelt 5211. The group goes into Washington every other Thursday morning. Appointments must be made in advance with the Red Cross so call today!

Men Wanted

The Greenbelt Observation Post needs men to serve on the midnight to eight-in-the-morning shifts. The shifts are in periods of two hours each running from 12-2; 2-4; 4-6; 6-8. Workers who come home from work towards midnight can help maintain a necessary defense activity by contributing two hours a week on one of the shifts of the Observation Post. The shifts are patrolled by two members of the Post at all times, so get one of your buddies and sign up.

If all of us were fighting as hard as you are . . . who would win the war, and how soon? —P M

Free Speech Takes a Beating

The American public this week asked some very pointed questions about the right of the two large broadcasting corporations to deny the consumer cooperatives the right to buy time on the air. The National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System have refused to sell time on stations they own and manage to The Cooperative League of the USA for its program "Let's Get Together, Neighbor" which was financed by the contributions of several thousand co-op members—some from Greenbelt—who wished to tell America about the advantages of consumer cooperation. The program was scheduled to go on the air over 30 stations from coast to coast for 13 weeks beginning Sunday, October 11.

The national Catholic Weekly "America", in a lead editorial reviewing the action of the networks, expresses the opinion that "the question will probably be aired on the floor of Congress", and concluded:

"The question immediately arises whether this is a legitimate exercise of censorship and, if it is, whether it should be left to private individuals, who happen to have a dominant position in the field of radio communication, to decide such a question. Our answer to both is 'No.'"

"Commonweal", Catholic weekly journal of opinion, in its forthcoming issue declares:

"The men and women who have banded together to secure essential goods and services of sound quality and reasonable cost and produced under good labor conditions have gone their way virtually unscathed."

"The crack-down by big business is now being investigated by the Federal Communications Commission. It is to be hoped that these officials will be consistent and sustain the co-ops in the interest of the common good."

"Tide" magazine, biweekly journal of advertising and marketing, in a long review of the situation says pointedly:

"The networks' official reasons differed. Of course, neither suggested that its action was based on a fear of antagonizing national advertisers."

"The Nation", in an editorial entitled "Caught in the Networks" says that "perhaps the broadcasting companies are not aware that the economic basis of consumer cooperation is so simple and so unassailable". It points out that Columbia, which holds that co-ops are controversial, has had no requests for time to state the case against consumer cooperation and calls this "a strange kind of controversy". The Nation editorial declares:

"We do not dispute the merits of Columbia's policy, which is founded on the reasonable premise 'that the ability to buy time should not determine the extent to which a particular side of a public controversial issue should be broadcast.' But we do question the assumption that consumers' cooperation is an issue of this kind. Who, we would like to know, has ever challenged on political, economic, or moral grounds the right of consumers to go into business for themselves? Who has challenged their right to govern such a business on the democratic principle of one member, one vote, their right to buy goods from such a business on a cash basis, their right to divide up the profits among themselves in proportion to the amount of their purchases? Perhaps the broadcasting companies are not aware that the economic basis of consumers' cooperation is so simple and so unassailable. Perhaps they do not know the extent of the movement or the fact that it has many friends and no public enemies. Columbia might have learned this from its experience in giving free time to the cooperative movement. In accordance with its policy it would have had to allot equal time to any responsible person or group that wished to state an opposing view, but, it admits, no unfavorable reactions or complaints have ever been evoked by broadcasts on consumer cooperation. A strange kind of controversy!"

"The Progressive", published by the LaFollettes in Madison, Wisconsin, declares:

"Broadcasting company officials, it seems, are reluctant to trust the American people with any of this heady stuff about business being run for the benefit of the consuming public..."

"Up until now we had assumed that the competitive system guarantees to any legitimate business the right to acquaint the people with what it has to sell..."

"This ruling of the two radio networks is a shocking commentary on the democratic aims and ideals of this country. If the Cooperative League does not abandon its traditional political aloofness and mobilize its forces for a hell-to-breakfast fight in Washington on this issue, it will not only be hurting itself irreparably, but it will have broken faith with all those who are fighting with it to make the American democratic dream come true."

As one of Greenbelt's cooperative enterprises this paper is entering our protests to CBS, to NBC and to our Congressmen. Monday night Greenbelt's largest cooperative meets to hear a noted Scotch co-op leader, and will have an opportunity to join the fight.

What a Week! What a Week!

Monday Night

You'd better shake off the raindrops, all you Greenbelters, and dry yourselves off for a week of typical Greenbelt activities. First the quarterly membership meeting of Greenbelt Consumer Services on Monday night, in the Auditorium. Besides a very good speaker, you will have reports on how your businesses are progressing. And if you have a bone to pick, this is the heaven sent opportunity that you've been looking for. A little healthy criticism is one of the things that helps businesses to grow and perform perfectly, and you certainly want your own to do that, don't you?

Wednesday Night

And what a chance you'll get at the Health Association Quarterly meeting on Wednesday night, same place, same time! Mr. Mesner (of true or false fame, remember?) is going to give the first business manager's report in over a year. While Mr. Mesner can't be blamed for what went on before his term of employment he'll give you a resume of what the condition of things is at present, and from then on, look out, Mr. M.! It may also be a good opportunity to meet all three of your doctors, in case you don't know all or any of them. From all reports, they're all trying to stave off illnesses on the part of their patients (at last we've hit on true preventive medicine!) so that they can attend. Maybe they won't all get there, but it's to be hoped for.

The Home Guard

The Minute Men meet every Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Elementary School. Any man over 18 is eligible to join, and they are open for new recruits. The Minute Men are just what their name implies—ready in a minute for any emergency. My next door neighbor on the right wishes her husband could join, so he'd be able to get up, dress, eat his breakfast and meet his ride on the corner, all in one minute. She says that's all the time he allows, anyway. It might be a good idea, men.

Scout Meeting Changed

The Girl Scout Troop 17 has changed its meeting night from Thursday to Tuesday, 7:30, at the Elementary School. Don't forget, girls. You'll look awful silly hanging around on Thursday night, when the meetings been over for two days.

Hallowe'en Dance

And don't forget the dance on Hallowe'en night. Costume affair, so you'll be able to tread heavily on the toes of your pet enemy and he'll never know you did it. How can he when you'll be all wrapped up in a sheet? Good band, good neighbors, good floor. You don't expect more than that at a dance, do you? And, another point, no transportation necessary. It's a home town affair, in spite of the good band playing for it. May I have the third waltz?

Two Main Problems Plague Food Store

"Greenbelt Consumers Services merchandise meets the standards of any retail stores in this section of the country," it was claimed by Acting General Manager Thomas Ricker Monday night, in answer to several recent complaints as to the quality of food being sold in the Food Store.

"There are two main problems to be met," said Mr. Ricker, "that of obtaining varied types of meat, and that of trying to get fresh produce of a good quality." He explained that the difficulty in getting meat transported to the Eastern States has resulted in the exhaustion of cured and tenderized meat supplies, leaving only fresh meat, and limited quantities of that. It was added that of the meat available, only "good" or "choice" grades are sold by GCS, "prime" cuts being so scarce as to be practically unobtainable.

The fresh produce problem, it was pointed out, was caused by the heavy rains throughout the summer. In particular string beans, corn, tomatoes and lima beans have suffered, he added, and since the supply of canned goods has been cut, many housewives have experienced shopping difficulties.

Passion Players From Ticket Line

Saturday, October 17, the group of 54 Greenbelt School children who attended the Passion Play in Washington not only saw the performance of the 22 chief characters, they also saw several of their own number appear in the show.

Helen Ward appeared in the Last Supper scene, Evelyn Black in the Pilot's scene, Patsy Sheretz, Helen Ward and Evelyn Black as water girls and palm bearers and Ray Ward, Renny Ward, Albert Bruffey and Frank Harper as guards. Mrs. Catherine Reed, principal of the elementary school, said that the group was well prepared in class before hand on the content and character of the play and were quite thrilled at being able to attend.

The Greenbelt students appearing in the play were selected by the stage manager as they were purchasing their tickets.

Chairman Leonard H. Burch of the Prince George Rationing Board announced that Stamp No. 9 will have a weight value of 3 pounds for the period November 1 to December 15, inclusive.

"It's the Wilkinsons phoning... they want us to come over to see their new tire!"

Reverend Robert L. Kincheloe, formerly of Greenbelt and now chaplain of the Defense Housing areas around Baltimore, spoke to the Greenbelt Women's Club at its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Guy Andrus last Thursday. Reverend Kincheloe reviewed the book "America's Own Refugees" by Henry Hill Collins, Jr., a work on the plight of the migrant laborer in the United States.

After a short business meeting Mrs. Daniel Neff, who presided, introduced Greenbelt's talented pianist Mrs. Leroy Smith. Mrs. Smith played two selections and then Reverend Kincheloe was introduced.

To illustrate many of his points, Rev. Kincheloe showed a motion picture taken by Frederick R. Thorne for the Home Missions Council depicting the lives of the migrants of California.

After the lecture the co-hostesses were Mrs. Denzil Wood and Mrs. J. Loftus who assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Women's Club Offers Novel Party Idea

The Greenbelt Women's Club is sponsoring an old fashioned "tacky" party to be held Saturday, October 24 from 8 to 12 p. m. in the Elementary School Auditorium. This dance is to raise funds to be used in the war effort. Children as well as adults are invited and may wear their Hallowe'en costumes if they wish.

There will be an orchestra, and refreshments will on sale under supervision of the Canteen. There will be prizes for both children and adults. Tickets will sell at 25 cents for children and 35 cents for adults.

The committee for this dance is headed by Mrs. Robert C. Porter with Mrs. J. L. Rogers handling the tickets and Mrs. Daniel Neff in charge of refreshments.

Kinzer and Goldfaden Attend Conferences

Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer, director of the adult education program in Greenbelt, and Recreational Director Ben Goldfaden attended conferences in Washington Tuesday and Thursday of this week in an attempt to secure funds to finance expansion of recreational facilities in Greenbelt.

The increased population during the past year has put a heavy strain on the personnel of the recreation department. It is hoped that more help can be secured.

Packers Doubling Up Two Tilts This Week-end

The Packers are going to make up for lost time this week-end when they collide gridironically with the Georgetown Boys' Club Saturday and the Berwyn B. C. Sunday. The Saturday battle will be held on the Monument grounds at 15th and Constitution Avenue in Washington and Braden Field gets the Sunday fracas.

The squad is in need of transportation for the first game. Any fan going to see the game will be a much appreciated transport.

Coach John Picco has worked the lads out twice this week in preparation for their Iron-man stunt and they can be counted on to give a fine account of themselves.

Bowling Well Under Way

The men's bowling league has been gliding along at a smooth pace in recent weeks. Individual records are not at this time available but following is the standing of the teams. All positions are determined by the preceding week's pinfall. It is hoped that in the future a more complete report will be made on these pages.

Your Paper

Your Cooperator should be delivered to your door regularly every Friday evening between 6:30 and 8 o'clock. We have dependable carriers, but should you fail to receive your paper please call 4346.

News may be given to Mr. Cooper, phone 4346, or to the Cooperator office, phone 3131 Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Advertisements may be given to Mr. Stewart, phone 2491, to Mr. Cooper, or to the Cooperator office.

Persons who would like to work on the staff should see Mr. Cooper at the Cooperator office, room 202, over the drug store, Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday evening.

The baseballers will have quite a few stars to sew on their Service Flag by next Spring if the current rate of induction is carried on. The Navy has called Curt Barker, Vince Holochwest and Julie Andrus; and George Uhrinak, Bob Thompson, Stan Provost and Frank Russo are wearing Army khaki.

Texas Jim Breed won 7 games and lost 4 for the second season in a row!

Coach Johnny Picco's youthful footballers had to postpone their game with Berwyn until the day after tomorrow on account of a very soggy turf last Sunday.

The boys were all ready to play and it is noted with pleasure that, although they could have gone ahead with their plans to play, they showed thoughtful consideration of their Braden Field and called Mr. Ben Goldfaden for his decision. Bravo, Donnie Brewer and Danny Jones!

The Recreational Department wants all softball and baseball uniforms returned. Also the basketball warm-up jumpers used by Summer sportsters are to be turned in for cleaning.

A number of Packers are going to have to fill up on their football diet in the next two Sundays as November 1 is the last grid date for all Packers making the grade on the High School's basketball squads.

Lou Gerstel, the Shamrocks' generous coach, is having a brief rest until basketball revives his agitation. Lou was the High School's number ONE fan last Winter.

This department had very much appreciated post cards from Curt Barker, up in Hanover, N. H. and from a star trio of former High courtsters, Bob Porter, Leroy Clark and Lynn Buck, way down in High Point, N. C.

Tennis tourney winners and runners-up are going to have a victory party next week.

Lady bowlers got caught in the College Park edition of the Middle-Atlantic-States flood last Thursday night. Many were carried to points less damp by a group of bare-footed Sir Walter Raleighs from Maryland University.

Goldfaden Reviews Recreation Season

Director Ben Goldfaden, in making his report to the Town Council on the recent activities of the Recreation Department, discloses a number of interesting facts.

The summer activities were all highly successful, judging from the number of participants and onlookers.

Boys and girls were treated to a long archery session, ending in a tournament, which was well run off and entertaining.

The tennis tournament, ending two weeks ago held interest in the eyes of fans and players alike. The courts showed an upward trend this summer in spite of a very long rainy spell.

The Softball Reps brought home their third County Championship in four years. The league was unique this season, in that all games were played under the lights of Braden Field. New wooden stands made their appearance along the base lines of the softball field.

The Baseball Shamrocks were not so successful but held their place in the eyes of the fans throughout the season. It was felt that too many games were played away from home, and the fact that it was hard to get teams to visit Braden Field on Saturdays held back the program.

The swimming pool enjoyed its greatest season. The Labor Day week saw it close with a chilly 1,589 patrons for the last seven days. Swimming instruction reached a new high and kept the guard force busy right up to the end.

Boating and fishing at the Lake lured 359 sportsmen for September and was very much appreciated all along.

The Department recently inaugurated street dancing in the shopping center plaza and approximately one thousand people took part. The dances, held on Friday or Saturday of each week, were postponed on two occasions on account of falling weather. The last session was poorly attended due to cold.

The recreation director organized the entire Elementary School into hiking groups recently. The hikers had a fine time in the woods and did a very noteworthy deed in collecting nearly a ton of scrap metal on their forays into the deep, dark woodland.

P.-T. A. Group to Attend G. C. S. Meeting Monday

Mrs. Comley Ritchie, president of the Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association announces that the group will not have its usual business meeting this Monday evening but will meet with the Greenbelt Consumer Services at 8 p. m. to hear Noel S. Beaton, speaker for the evening. Mrs. Ritchie expressed the hope that all members of the P. T. A. will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend.

"NOTHING TO SELL

You'll Be Sorry If You Miss It

Survey Throws New Light On Typical Greenbelters

By ANNE HULL

Were you among the 346 families who filled out the questionnaires circulated to 800 residences some two months ago? Even if you weren't, you may be interested in some of the findings made by William Form, who is submitting a thesis dealing with Greenbelt as part of the requirements for his doctor's degree in sociology.

Mr. Form is making a specialized study of the white-collar worker and finds, of course, that Greenbelt elicited the most interesting answers, as most of us come under this category. His questionnaire was circulated to collect data for the basis of a study of significant trends. Tabulation of the answers on the questionnaires is a tremendous job and has not yet been completed, but Mr. Form already has some interesting figures and general observations to offer.

The request for a list of 10 or more "most important persons in Greenbelt" elicited the most interesting answers. Some gave the names of the members of their immediate families and friends, saying that, to them, these were the most important. Others listed no one, remarking that there could be no "most important" people in a town of so transient a nature as Greenbelt. Some qualified their answers, indicating, for instance, that if the questionnaire meant "in a political sense", they would list Community Manager Braden. If, on the other hand, it was meant in an economic sense, they would list Thomas Ricker and various board members of the Greenbelt Consumers' Services. Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer and Dr. William Eisner were frequently included in the lists, as well as the officers of various community organizations.

Almost half of those answering the questionnaire had lived longest in cities of over 100,000, while only 15 per cent were from areas of less than 2,500. The indications are that most of us, therefore, are city folks, and, as is typical of city folk, we do not attend church regularly. Only about one-quarter of us attend regularly. Slightly less than one-half of us (assuming that the cross-section is typical) never go to church.

Greenbelt is famous as a community which has a high rate of organizational participation. This reputation is well borne out by questionnaire results, which indicate that 55 per cent belong to one or more local organizations, which is a high percentage for an urban area. Less than 30 per cent belong to any organized group in Washington, indicating that we tend to be self-sufficient in organizational opportunities. 64 per cent of the men in Greenbelt are active in organizations, as compared to 46 per cent of the Greenbelt women. In any given family, if the husband is active in community affairs, the wife is found to be equally so.

Six persons went out of their way to state that they had volunteered their services in various defense projects and that no one had followed them up and told them how they could be of service. They protested, therefore, against the charges of non-participation leveled at citizens by defense officials and by the Cooperator.

Seventeen different informal clubs were listed, with card clubs having the heaviest participation, closely followed by sewing groups and "social" clubs.

It seems that we are omnivorous readers. A large number of families purchase at least two daily papers. Over 40 per cent buy four or more magazines; some subscribe to as many as a dozen. Favorites are Time, Life, Readers' Digest, Women's Home Companion, Saturday Evening Post, Good Housekeeping, Cosmopolitan, American, Collier's, McCall's, Red Book, Home and Garden, Various church periodicals, technical journals, and unusual hobby magazines were also listed. Only three per cent of the families answering the questionnaires said they purchased no literature.

And how we do study! Over one-third of the family heads of the sample cross-section went to school last winter. Courses such as accounting, auditing, and statistics were the most popular. Next came law and engineering. One-tenth of the courses were taken in the field of administration and management, while 8.3 per cent concerned commercial subjects, languages, drafting, mapping, photography, handicraft and manual skills. 6.8 per cent took physical sciences; 4.5 per cent first aid and allied subjects.

Almost 70 per cent of the families in Greenbelt operated a car last year.

Citizen reaction to the questionnaire in general both amused and amazed Mr. Form. Some were sure it was a "nosey" document circulated by the Town Administration for the sole purpose of eliciting information leading to their eviction. Some gloomy old-timers remarked that "this isn't Greenbelt any more" and said they had no heart for filling out a questionnaire on the subject. Others simply said they were sick of being circularized and questionnaired, while another group was too busy holding down jobs and housekeeping to think of doing one more thing.
